Investment Process

With anomalies as a start point, the investment process seeks to identify and invest in key 'themes' in the Pacific region. Our themes are driven by factors outside of the normal economic cycle and are not yet discounted by the market. Companies are identified and chosen via rigorous bottom-up analysis with emphasis on traditional value and high ROCE. Cash and Index Futures are used when opportunities are few and to reduce portfolio volatility.

Fund Manager Commentary

The fund was up 6.7% in January. The strong start to the year was driven mostly by the fund's exposure to the Philippines, Thailand and Vietnam. Kinh Do Corp, the Vietnamese baked goods and confectionary company, has been a big contributor to performance, along with Minor International, a Thai company operating hotels and fast food restaurants in the region. Metro Pacific, a conglomerate with utility, toll roads and healthcare assets in the Philippines was also a positive contributor. China Mobile, Samsung Electronics and Daewoo International detracted from performance.

The year has got off to a flying start, driven by the benign liquidity environment globally and the relative outperformance of the structural growth story in ASEAN. In short, by 2015 the AEC (ASEAN Economic Community) will transform ASEAN (with its 600+million population) into a region with free movement of goods, services, investment, skilled labour, and freer flows of capital.

A short term correction may be due but don't be put off. Price/book ratios are rising in South East Asia but ROE and earnings growth remain very strong. In addition, the ASEAN Economic Community theme remains attractive and is now gathering popularity, as recent inflows illustrate. Large regional Asian funds conventionally invested in line with the regional index may typically have under 10% exposure to the key ASEAN markets of Thailand, the Philippines, Indonesia and Vietnam, making the Prusik Asia Fund one of the few ways to gain real exposure to this story.
